

Ike Hand-Picks Nixon, Not McCarthy, To Reply To Adlai

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower hand-picked Vice President Nixon, instead of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), to fire back the Republican party's reply to charges by Adlai Stevenson that the GOP is using "slander, disinformation and deception" to try to win the coming congressional elections.

One informed source indicated that the strategy was "to get McCarthy out of the headlines and get our story across."

But McCarthy, while terming

Nixon an "excellent choice" to speak for the party, made it clear last night he still expects NBC and CBS to give him free radio and TV time to reply to what he called a "vicious attack on me personally" by Stevenson, the Democrats' 1952 presidential candidate.

"I am delegating to no one the authority to defend me," McCarthy declared after he had learned the two big networks had rejected his demand for equal air time but had agreed instead to give the Republican party a 30-minute rebuttal period.

The Wisconsin senator hinted strongly he might take the matter to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), of which his friend, Robert E. Lee, recently became a member. The FCC licenses and regulates radio and television operations.

Addressing a big Democratic rally in Miami, Fla., last Saturday night, Stevenson aimed much of his attack at McCarthy, whom he accused of seeking to lead the Republican party to a "malign and fatal totalitarianism." The titular leader of the Democrats also said the Republicans are divided "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee, claiming that Stevenson had "impugned the Eisenhower administration," got in ahead of McCarthy yesterday with a formal bid for equal radio and TV time to reply. He stressed that Stevenson spoke as leader of the Democratic party.

Hall wired both big networks that "this is not a matter for personal rebuttal by any individual"—an apparent reference to McCarthy.

High administration sources said last night Eisenhower himself made the suggestion that the Republican National Committee seek free radio-TV time to answer Stevenson and that it was the President who chose Nixon to speak for the party. The President, it was reported, phoned the idea to Hall, who already had moved in the same direction.

McCarthy, arriving in New York after a brief Miami vacation, said Hall was "entirely correct" in regarding the Stevenson speech as an attack on the GOP. McCarthy, in fact, called it an "intemperate attack." But he added:

"Nixon is speaking for the party. I'm speaking for myself."

"The FCC rules," he asserted, "provide that I must be given time to answer these charges. I intend to do everything I can to make the television companies live up to their obligations."

Commission sources said FCC's basic law requires that candidates for public office be given "equal opportunities" on the air. But this would not cover the present situation since no one involved is an active candidate.

However, these sources also said the commission has tried in the past to see to it that broadcasters treated all controversial issues fairly.

In announcing that it was honoring Hall's request, CBS said it got the GOP chairman's bid first and would not grant McCarthy the free time he asked because "time already has been given to the GOP to answer Stevenson."

NBC said it would give "commensurate time" to the party, not McCarthy.

Both networks allotted the GOP the 10:30-11 p. m. (EST) period next Saturday, the same as that filled by Stevenson last week.

PUCO Orders Ohio Central Phone Fixup

Improved Service Due In 30 Exchanges Over 22-County Region

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio today ordered the Ohio Central Telephone Corp. to improve service in 30 of its 46 exchanges which it operates in 22 counties.

The commission in its 14-page order also told the company to inspect the remaining 16 exchanges and make improvements if they are necessary. The company, headquartered in Lima, has exchanges in these counties: Clinton, Fayette, Pickaway, Trumbull, Mahoning, Portage, Columbiana, Richland, Crawford, Marion, Morrow, Wayne, Holmes, Coshocton, Muskingum, Licking, Knox, Delaware, Fairfield, Madison, Warren and Greene.

The commission noted in its order, "No telephone company's service can be properly classified as satisfactory as long as the subscribers are unable to obtain in the class and the amounts of service

DuPont Plant Operations To Start Gradually

Emory F. Ridlon, manager of the new Du Pont Co. plant now nearing completion south of Circleville, clarified Tuesday a newspaper report that the big $15,000,000 unit will swing into operation "in mid-1954."

He said it would be more accurate to say that the plant will begin operations sometime in the latter half of this year, and that the period of change—from the building to the operating—is certain to last over a period of several months.

Du Pont officials had explained here some time ago that the change will have to be gradual.

Operations at the local plant will begin almost anytime "from July on," Ridlon explained. Circleville's plant will be the first unit built to produce a new plastic-like film, "Mylar," on a commercial basis.

Reports have persisted, without Du Pont comment, that the plant now being finished will only be the nucleus for a much larger Du Pont industrial development here.

Du Pont's annual report to its 146,000 stockholders said the local plant was part of a $135.1 million program of expansion and improvement extending through last year.

Witness Explains Policeman's Death

IRONTON (AP)—William R. Fuller, 33, of Huntington, W. Va., came here voluntarily yesterday, to tell what he knows about the death of police Patrolman Carl Green, 31.

An Ohio highway patrolman, Robert Bricks, is to be arraigned tomorrow for manslaughter in the hit-skip death of Green.

Police said Fuller told them he was in the car Green was standing beside when an automobile struck and killed him. They quoted Fuller as saying when he determined Green was dead he left as there was nothing he could do, so he went back to Huntington.

His driver's license was found beside Green's body.

Pope Regaining Much Strength

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius is increasing his solid diet daily and regaining strength lost through his seriousness, Vatican sources said today.

The pontiff, confined to his bed for many days, now is reported moving about his Vatican Palace apartment for longer periods each day and devoting an ever-increasing amount of time to church affairs.

A NARROW ESCAPE for school children is illustrated in these photos showing the result of a school bus ramming a crane. The bus was en route from Montello, Wis., to Milwaukee, Wis. The children ducked just in time.

GOP Leaders Arrange Parley To Talk About 'Fair' Probes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican leaders called a meeting today to discuss steps that might be taken to persuade committees to make their investigative procedures fair to everyone.

The question arose in the wake of a public row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens.

A closed meeting of the Senate GOP Policy Committee followed introduction by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) and Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) yesterday of a bill to establish by

Wood Sliver Is Tied To Hog Theft

LONDON (AP)—A small piece of wood was the clue which led a Madison County deputy sheriff to the trail of a man accused of stealing 23 hogs.

Dep. Sheriff Herbert Markley found the piece of wood near the scene of a recent hog theft. It looked like it might have broken off a truck.

Yesterday, he found a likely looking truck in southern Fayette County near the Ross County line. Markley stopped the truck. The little piece of wood fit exactly into a broken portion of the truck's tailgate, he said.

Markley arrested William Hanaway, 39, the driver, who gave two home addresses, one in Dayton and the other as Rt. 2, Waverly.

After hours of questioning, Sheriff Harold Bidwell of Madison County announced Hanaway had made an oral statement admitting the hog theft, adding he had taken the animals to a Scioto County farm.

In addition, Bidwell reported, Hanaway's statement also admitted he stole some 400 bushels of corn from a federal government storage bin near London and similar thefts in Fayette, Pickaway, Union, Clark, Hancock and Hardin Counties.

Hanaway was charged with grand larceny in the hog theft case.

Capitol Hill Highlights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) tells the Senate Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) "is doing his best to shatter" the Republican party "by intention or through ignorance."

The Wisconsin senator, Flanders says, belongs to a "one-man party, (whose) name is McCarthyism."

Statehood—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic floor leader in the Senate, reports after a party caucus that Sens. Long (D-La.) and Holland (D-Fla.) have come out against a proposal to combine the Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills in the Senate. He adds the Democratic conference made no effort to bind its members to one course of action.

Farm surplus—Homer L. Binkley, executive vice president of the National Council of Farmers Cooperatives, confirms the Senate Agriculture Committee present U. S. policies in handling surplus farm products may be leading "into a kind of state trading."

CHAVEZ—At the same conference, Democrats plan a showdown on a Republican move to unseat Sen. Chavez (D-NM). Democratic senators now outnumber Republicans by one.

PROBES—The Senate Republican Policy Committee talks over means to persuade investigating committees to follow fair procedures. Some investigations, particularly those of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), are under attack for alleged mistreatment of witnesses.

TAXES—House Republicans confer on an excise-tax-cutting bill which the Eisenhower administration thinks goes too far, but which seems likely to win Congress' okay anyhow.

Solon Questions Selection Of Ohio For Atomic Plant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Hand (R-NJ.) says the government might have saved millions by building an atomic energy plant on the Green River in Kentucky instead of in Southern Ohio.

Hand says the Pike County plant is 200 miles from an undeveloped coal field in Kentucky.

Now the AEC is urging Congress to appropriate $14,399,000 to deepen and improve the Green River so this coal may be hauled to the Portsmouth plant. Of the total, $5,400,000 is sought for the next fiscal year. In addition, $800,000 is being asked in a supplementary budget to start work before July 1.

The congressman expressed his view at a closed-door hearing of the House Appropriations Subcommittee. The hearing record was made public yesterday.

Hand commented:

"IT WOULD BE very interesting to hear from the Atomic Energy Commission as to what led them to believe the Ohio location was better and then later think about this undeveloped coal field on the Green River."

Possible Defeat For Ike Seen In Tax-Cut Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some key Republicans said today the Eisenhower administration faces probable defeat in trying to stave off a wide range of excise tax cuts.

A bill to reduce many of these "nuisance" taxes comes up in the House tomorrow, with leadership backing and with no organized opposition in sight there or in the Senate.

President Eisenhower evidently conceded defeat in the House when he conferred yesterday with GOP congressional leaders.

Leaders said the administration would not oppose House passage of the bill to slash about $930 million a year off taxes on movie tickets, furs, passenger fares, telephone bills, cosmetics, luggage, handbags and wallets, jewelry, cameras, sporting goods and other items.

But they announced, after the White House conference, that the administration would fight to knock out some of these reductions when the bill hits the Senate. The administration position is that the government cannot afford to lose the revenue.

The bill would slice to 10 per cent all excise or sales taxes now above that level, except those on liquor and tobacco, effective April 1.

The proposal also would cancel about $1 billion in reductions now scheduled for April 1 in excise taxes on liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, gasoline, trucks and buses, beer and wine. Eisenhower has urged this cancellation.

Ammer Urges Franklin Coroner For Verdict In Mrs. Hall's Death

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer called upon the Franklin County coroner in a letter Tuesday to announce a verdict in the death of Mrs. Lulu Hall of Circleville.

Ammer said Dr. Robert A. Evans, the coroner, should announce a verdict without further delay "in fairness to the public and the Circleville police department." Mrs. Hall died Feb. 21 in a Columbus hospital after being found, at her home, suffering from a severe throat wound.

The Franklin County coroner has since refused to consider the case closed, claiming the reports forwarded to him from Circleville have not been satisfactory. He also declared "someone is withholding information" here on the case.

Police Chief Elmer Merriam and Ammer, however, have officially listed the case as a suicide.

PROTESTING The stand still maintained by Dr. Evans, Ammer wrote in part:

"On February 24th, 1954, I wrote to you at your request, a letter containing the full details relative to the death of Mrs. Lulu Hall of Circleville, Ohio, and in order to expedite a verdict from your office and at your request, I had the letter sent to your office on that afternoon through the courtesy of the Highway Patrol, making a special trip to Columbus.

"I felt that this was necessary in view of the wide publicity that had been given this case in the Circleville and Columbus papers. In these stories you seemed to indicate that the wounds could have been the result of foul play.

"In the letter of February 24th, 1954, I advised you that Circleville Police Chief, Elmer Merriam, Sgt. Charles Smith and myself conducted an investigation of the case over a two day period and I further advised you that the results of that investigation established without a doubt that Mrs. Hall's death resulted of wounds which were self-inflicted and that there was no basis of any foul play in the case.

"I further advised you of every detailed step that was taken by the Police Department, from the time that they were called in the case on Friday morning, February 19th, 1954 until the investigation was completed in the afternoon of February 23rd, 1954.

"Every indication at the outset was that it was suicide and that

Salem Agreeing To Widen Street

COLUMBUS (AP)—Salem's main avenue, State Street, will be widened, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of Salem and state highway department officials.

The street is part of Ohio 14, on the main Cleveland-Pittsburgh artery traveled heavily by trucks.

Highway Director Samuel O. Linzell assured state aid for the project which involves widening the street two feet on each side. Salem will pay $20,000 of the cost, provide plans and reset utilities.

Linzell told Mayor Dean B. Cranmer: "We are happy to see the City of Salem take the initiative in this matter."

Federal Ag Aide Says Administration Had 'No Choice' In Setup

COLUMBUS (AP)—A statewide drop of about one cent a quart on retail milk and eight cents a pound on retail butter was predicted here today.

The deductions will be the result of lowered price supports on dairy products by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, a reduction, a department spokesman said, which came because the Eisenhower administration "had no other choice."

The retail price drops, accompanied by proportionate declines on the farm, will come in three weeks—April 1, according to two Ohio State University dairy marketing specialists.

Robert Pelley and Elmer Baumer said the new federal support program will reduce farm milk prices 40 to 60 cents per hundred pounds.

They based their estimates of farm milk prices on formulas paid by eight principal markets in the state.

OTHER PREDICTIONS made by Pelley and Baumer included:

1. Dairymen selling milk for cheese, butter, dry-milk powder or evaporated milk can expect a drop of 60 cents per hundredweight for their products.
2. Farm prices of milk sold for

Engineer Says Zanesville Dam Foes Dwindle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposition to the Dillon Reservoir project near Zanesville, Ohio, has declined among people living in the area, an Army engineer officer has told Congress.

"I have understood from personal conversations that there is a very decided desire for this project now," Brig. Gen. C. H. Chorpene told a House appropriations subcommittee.

"I would never say that all opposition has disappeared, but I believe there is less opposition now than there has been in the past."

The government already has spent $9,189,800 on the Muskingum River flood control project. Total estimated cost is $27,061,000. President Eisenhower has asked for $2 million to continue work on Dillon during the year starting July 1, 1954.

To justify the project, the general cited a flood in January 1952. Zanesville suffered damage of $304,000, he said, and $206,000 of that would have been prevented by Dillon Dam.

"At Marietta," he continued, "there were flood damages of $2,350,000, of which $1,150,000 could have been prevented."

In 1948, he said, flood damage at Marietta amounted to $6,415,000, of which $1,350,000 would have been prevented by the reservoir.

Damage that year at Zanesville he said, was $70,000, of which $45,000 would have been prevented.

RACKETEER INDICTED

CLEVELAND (AP)—A federal grand jury last night indicted Alex (Shondor) Birns, Cleveland racket figure, accusing him of concealing $82,471 of income in making tax returns for 1947 through 1950.

bottling and re-sold on the retail market will drop 40 to 60 cents per 100 pounds for 3.5 per cent butterfat milk.

It was Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse who said the government had no choice but to lower price supports for dairy products in the marketing year beginning April 1.

Morse said Agriculture Secretary Benson, in lowering the supports for butter, cheese and dried milk from the present level of 90 per cent of parity to 75 per cent, followed a ruling by the Agriculture Department's solicitor, or top legal officer.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

In a speech prepared for the Miami Valley Milk Producers Assn. meeting in Dayton, Morse said farm law specifically directs 75 and 90 per cent of parity, at a level which he determines will "assure an adequate supply."

"The solicitor of the department ruled," the undersecretary said, "that the supply situation was such that the lower level of support would have to be applied within the meaning of the law."

Pair Of Bandits Gets $30,000 In Milan Bank Holdup

MILAN — The Erie County United Bank was held up by two men today and police reported about $30,000 was taken.

The holdup men, described as dark complexioned, fled in a car with Ohio license Q23R. Police Chief William Smalley said.

Full details were lacking, but police said one of the men flashed a pistol. The other man was believed unarmed.

Police immediately set up roadblocks throughout the area.

One of the men was described as about six feet tall, and wearing a brown sweater or coat. The other was said to be about 5'7", wearing a checkered sweater.

U.S. Chemical Industry May Slow Growth

A Pause To Digest Recent Big Bites Seen Coming Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—The fast growing chemical industry may have to pause this year to digest some of the great bites it has taken since the war.

But it's been a rich and tasty meal—sales up 10 per cent last year, earnings up 8 per cent, plant expansion up 1½ billion dollars, spending on research up 10 per cent.

Recent months haven't been that good. Du Pont set a record for sales for the entire year, but the final three months of 1953 fell behind the similar 1952 quarter.

Allied Chemical & Dye also reports demand for its products fell off at the end of 1953, reflecting the general business slowdown.

As du Pont's president, Crawford H. Greenwalt, explains: "Du Pont, in common with the chemical industry, is primarily a supplier to other manufacturers." But while the demand is catching up, Du Pont's "research work to improve the quality and extend the uses of existing products is being undertaken continuously."

Leaders of the industry insist that, thanks to research's turning up new consumer products, the long-range trend is still upwards, and that job opportunities for chemists and chemical engineers this year will "remain at a rather high level."

Other industry leaders say its huge growth since the war has built its capacity to produce most of the basic chemicals to a level that probably will exceed demand for the next several years, barring any further national emergency. They predict that capital expenditures will begin to taper off by the end of this year, and the period of digestion will be under way.

The first 33 chemical companies to report on 1953 earnings show only three that didn't do better than the year before—and their down-slip wasn't large. Combined the 33 had net profit after taxes of $649,851,617, an 8 per cent climb above 1952's net income for the same 33 of $601,198,600.

The Manufacturing Chemists' Assn. estimates when all companies are heard from, the industry's net profits after taxes will top one billion dollars. It puts profits before taxes at 2½ billion, showing how deeply the excess profits tax cut into booming 1953 business.

Cops Can't Find Scene Of Crime

FITCHBURG, Mass. (AP)—Police have solved a crime involving theft of $100 but they don't know where it happened.

A fugitive from Shirley Industrial School—a detention home for boys—was returned here yesterday on a charge of taking a car without authority.

Police said he told them of breaking into a gas station last Tuesday and stealing $100 from the cash register.

But he couldn't tell where the gas station was other than "within a day's walking distance from Fitchburg."

No nearby police department has any record of the theft.

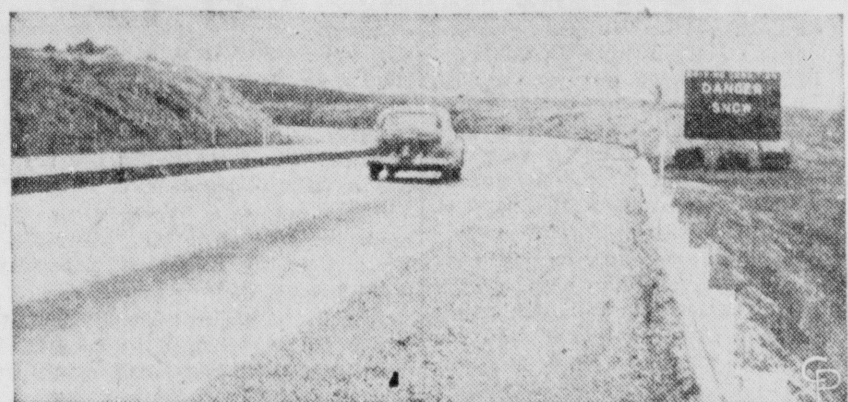

Tax Sill Due

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The internal revenue office blushing admitted yesterday that it was fresh out of income tax forms 1040 and 1040A. But more are expected tomorrow, it hastened to add, and the tax deadline is still March 15.

Electronic weather Sign Flashes Road Conditions

By A. VERNON DAVIS
Central Press Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Something new in highway safety is being tried out on the Pennsylvania Turnpike—the 327-mile superhighway which runs across the state of Pennsylvania from east to west.

It's a "weather sensing" sign which tells the motorist what the weather conditions are on the stretch of highway just ahead of him. The conditions are spelled out on an electric sign. The eight by eleven-foot sign can handle five messages: fog, roadway wet, snow, clear roadway and roadway freezing.

The experimental setup is completely automatic, thanks to late electronic developments. Automatic operation is achieved by a master sensing device which controls the word formation appearing on the roadside sign.

Three electronic elements team up to keep the Twentieth Century driver advised of weather conditions ahead of him. Fog is detected by an electric eye—a photo electric cell.

Precipitation is detected by a second device, adjusted to light up the "roadway wet" words when proper to do so.

A third sensing element translates the temperature into the proper impulse in conjunction with the other two elements. This element determines when the words should be lighted up for "roadway freezing" or "snow."

The experimental device has been installed along the Philadelphia extension of the Turnpike for east-bound traffic, a few miles east of the Bowmansville service station.

Thomas J. Evans, chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission, says other equipment will be installed if the experiments now underway are successful.

In fact, if the tests work out it is possible the electronic equipment will not only help the motoring public, but also the maintenance crews along the superhighway. The weather detecting signals from the master equipment do not have to be restricted to any one display sign. And it is possible, by radio, to flash word of road conditions by highway sections to the sectional maintenance buildings, thus alerting workmen to road conditions in their areas.

Errant Red Wins Freedom In Trial

MATERA, Italy (AP)—A Communist leader who quit the party and came back from Czechoslovakia to stand trial was acquitted last night on charges of resisting public order.

The court freed Matteo Massenzio, former secretary of the local Red party unit, on grounds there was not enough evidence against him. He had been accused of leading Communists in a 1948 clash with the police in which several persons were injured.

Police said he had shouted during the riot: "Give me the Red flag or give me death." During his trial he testified:

"I'm glad to be finally rid of this incubus. I chose liberty because no one knows better than I who've seen it at first hand what the Soviet paradise really is."

Italy's Oldest Dog, 21, Killed

GROSSETO, Italy (AP)—Italy's oldest dog, 21-year-old Birillo (it's Italian for Skittles) died yesterday but it took an automobile to kill him.

The old veteran, whose picture appeared in many newspapers last year when he passed 20, wandered into the street and into the path of a car.

Cameramen who photographed him last year asked what kind of a dog he was and what was his secret of longevity.

To the first question, his owner replied: "Well, mostly just mixed dog."

To the second: "I feed him vitamins."

ONE CRISIS RIDDEN OUT

A YEAR AGO Iran was one of the world's sore spots. There was widespread fear that Iranian oil would fall into Russian hands.

Mossaddegh, a strange character who was premier, had kicked the British out of their rich oil fields and "nationalized" the oil industry of the country. The fear that Russia would move in and buy the oil which was boycotted in world markets was real. That would have put the Russians on the Persian Gulf, dividing Asia. World War III might have resulted if—as seemed unavoidable—the free world felt compelled to intervene.

It is now a year later. The recalcitrant Mossaddegh is in jail instead of in the premiership, the Shah is back in power, and hopes are rosy that the entire Iranian oil question will be settled in a few months. A group of American, British, Dutch and French interests to manage Iranian oil operations is in process of formation.

The new operators of the oil fields and refineries would try to award Iran a larger share of the profits than it obtained under British ownership. To find a market for 700,000 barrels of oil daily may be quite a chore, as there is no oil shortage at the moment. But no one today fears that Russia will move into Iran. Perhaps other developments that now look as menacing as the Iranian situation did a year ago will also blow over.

FINANCE MAKES NEWS

FINANCIAL PAGES, which have been rather insipid by older standards for years, have come alive, with some of the news spilling over on the front pages. Not for decades has there been a fight for control of a railroad, but the one that is developing over the New York Central promises to be a beauty.

Robert R. Young, who is leading a fight for proxies to take control from the present management, says his fight is against the "Morgan interests." It seems like old times, all right. Young's ultimate goal is reported to be a rail empire stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

While this is going on, brokers throughout the country, with the approval of the New York Stock Market, have launched a plan to sell any listed stocks on monthly payments. More than 5,000 customers are reported in the first two days. Mergers of automobile manufacturers, in addition to those already announced, are the subject of rumors, but there is little to substantiate any of them at the moment.

But, whether it is a sign of return to normal or something else, the stock market and financial affairs are back in the news in a big way.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In the mutterings against the confusions of an era of rejection of ancient and established forms, various professions turn to a self-examination of their procedures and seek to re-establish by self-legislation ethical codes of conduct which used to be accepted as part of a way of life.

I recently partook of such fare at the Institute on Legal Ethics at the College of Law of the University of Florida at Gainesville, Florida.

The problem presented to the assembled panel was what the layman thought of the legal profession, which is not a sound question to ask because there are all sorts of lawyers and all sorts of laymen. For instance, those lawyers who are most concerned about legal ethics generally practice their names and affairs out of newspapers, living happily in an obscurity of their own choosing.

They regard it as unethical for lawyers to advertise directly or indirectly and fear that the lawyer who gets his name and photograph into newspapers is really practicing an indirect form of advertising. They themselves eschew such matters as interviews and comments on great subjects and would never soil their hands by such ugly matters as murders and divorces, although crime and disruption are enormously important in our society.

The public, however, is more interested in the human side of the law. A murder is always fascinating, particularly if the murderer happens to be a woman. The people's instinct in the matter is correct because murders and similar horrors mirror the society in which we live. The duel between Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr is a classical example of a murder which makes everlastingly interesting reading. A kidnapping is important to the community not only in which it occurs, but everywhere in the country. Parents would resent a censorship which kept such news from them.

Such a nuptial battle as involved Bobo Rockefeller or the James Roosevelts is appealing news to most Americans who are disturbed by a marriage system which only too often is a disguised form of polygamy and polyandry, arranged by lawyers for profit and the participants for their convenience. The public likes big names on the general principle that the proletariat always finds it delightful when the upper classes slip. It may be catering to vulgar tastes to tell the truth about such matters; yet when one thinks about it, it is the participants who are the vulgarians.

The gentlemen among whom I spent this delightful evening on ethics criticized the ethics of those lawyers and even judges who use such occasions as divorces to get all the free advertising they can. A reporter knows how anxious the lawyers are for a little headline or a photograph. A good sign is when the lawyer spells out his name to make sure that it does not appear incorrectly in the public prints. Judges are malefactors in this sense and drop a well-chosen bon mot to get a laugh, in the hope that their pearls of sarcasm, if not wisdom, will find their way to posterity.

Prevention of Motion Sickness

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ENGINEERS have prevented many a bump or twist for the traveler, but they have not been able to prevent motion sickness.

Many ingenious devices have been perfected with this intention in mind, but the average rider on a train, plane, car, or boat still experiences some degree of discomfort. Fortunately, engineers have not been the only ones seeking a cure for this.

Medical scientists have perfected many drugs that protect a person against motion sickness.

Very rough travel can make nine out of ten persons ill. Moderately rough travel upsets ten to thirty per cent of inexperienced travelers.

Motion sickness often begins with drowsiness. Then the person may develop a white pallor, a cold sweat, and begins to swallow excessively, giving off a large amount of saliva. Finally he develops severe nausea and vomiting. In some cases, motion sickness is accompanied by dizziness.

Balance Instability
It is believed that the disease is caused by an instability of the balance mechanism in the inner ear. Certain persons will become sick even before they get on board a ship, plane or train, due to emotional strain. These cases are very few, however.

Many drugs have been used to treat motion sickness. One, known as scopolamine, has been used for many years with good results. During the war, dramamine was discovered, which was also very effective in relieving motion sickness.

A Day's Protection
Recently, a new drug known as bonamine was developed. Two tablets of this new drug will protect most travelers from motion sickness for a full twenty-four hours.

However, it should be remembered that these drugs should only be taken under a doctor's direction.

The Doctor Disagrees

By Elizabeth Seifert

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

SHELLY based her plan on an article which she had read in one of the medical magazines which came into the office. "A night-emergency call service," she named her idea as she talked it off first to one doctor then to another.

She called on each one in person. Shelly was a very pretty young woman, as well as being nicknamed Carr—which had its weight in town. It was, she admitted, her own idea, but she hoped to get the endorsement of the Medical society at its next meeting.

She was trying to see if enough doctors would co-operate. Her idea earned success, too, by its simplicity. It was, in short, a plan to establish a service to persons needing emergency medical care at night. Her own phone number could be the central exchange. She would arrange to have someone at her house always to answer. The doctors would rotate duty, with two, or maybe three, on call each night. They must remain available to summons.

The patients would be charged according to their ability to pay, and their cases would later be passed on to their own doctor if so desired.

Shelly, both earnest and pretty, sold her plan at once. The doctors who at first held out, later called and asked to be enrolled. Certainly, they agreed, people should be able to get a doctor at night. A doctor, just as certainly, needed time for rest and relaxation, and Shelly's plan just about guaranteed that, except for one night out of eight. That wasn't too much to ask.

Later, when people praised her for this work, Shelly could be sincerely puzzled that she should be commended. The whole thing had developed so smoothly, had seemed such an obvious, simple idea.

Even Myra's co-operation . . . Ike was still making rumbling noises about their moving in on Shelly! He'd not given up the apartment with the Pollers; he was occupying the guest room at the Carr home as a guest—though he had a score of more derogatory terms for his status.

Shelly did her best to tell him what a help it was to have them in the house. "I needed you," she said, in as many ways as she could find.

Myra still was trying to justify her initial intrusion. And she too tried to point out to the big, blond man that Shelly did need them.

Ike could only see that they were established in luxury. Even when Shelly agreed to their paying rent and board, he still called the Vandables moochers, spongers.

Myra had taken over many household duties, but, manlike, they seemed intangibles to Ike. Meal planning and grocery shopping were as nothing to him. "I make too good money, Myra," he said to his wife. "We don't need charity!"

The tense, dark girl faced him angrily. "We're not gettin' charity! We're gettin' friendship in return."

Copyright, 1953, by for the same! It's a comfort to Shelly to have us here. She likes to hear a man across the hall—

"Sure, sure. She don't miss her husband when she hears me snore like a bilge pump suckin' bottom."

"You spoke a word with the bark on it there, Mr. Vandable! Your gushy snore is precisely what she needs."

But Ike could not be persuaded, and both girls began to fear that the pleasant arrangement would be broken off.

And then the Night Emergency Service required someone at the telephone from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. This need Ike could understand.

He approved of Shelly's plan; he had heard the men on the job tell how hard it was to get a doctor at night. Shelly's businesslike chart of doctors and telephone numbers and hours on duty—

"It's a good idea not to have them on duty the same night of each week," he pointed out.

"That's because there's twenty-five, and at three a night, it works out every eighth day."

Ike nodded. "It's still good."

"It would tie Myra down quite a bit," said Shelly, with genuine concern. "Though if she stays here, as I want you to do, I'd be here to let her off some evenings."

"But we must have the phone extension moved into our room," said Ike.

And the girls knew they had won. Ike knew it, too, and acknowledged the victory with a twinkle from beneath his weather-beaten eyebrows.

"I've never known," he said slowly, "just how your husband's family took to us movin' in on you, Shelly. I'm wonderin' now how they're going to take to your settin' up a business here in your house."

"The phone, you mean?" Ike smiled at her.

Shelly turned the knitting in her hands. It was a rainy night, and the little room was cozy with firelight; the sound of wet tires out on the street accented the warmth indoors. "Ike . . ." she said slowly, and shot a glance at Myra, who sat curled up on the hearth rug, the flashlight shining in a glistering band upon her smooth, dark hair.

"When Stephen went away, he felt, and said, that his family would help me solve any problems that might come up."

"I didn't have many problems that needed solving until just last week when Dr. Talbot was hurt. As you'll remember, my father-in-law came to see me the night after that accident. But it was not to help me solve the problem which had arisen. He could have solved it. I said I was sure that Craig had not been drunk; he could have taken that stand, and maintained it; it would not have taken much more than a word or two—the Carrs are so important in this town, so influential . . ."

"And how!" breathed Ike.

"Yes," smiled Shelly. "If Mr. Carr had chosen to step on the gossip about Craig's being drunk, Elizabeth Seifert. Distributed by King Features Syndicate."

the whole thing would have dissolved. There'd be no talk about suspending his license, and so on. And I'd have no problem.

"Instead, he said airily, 'Well, I don't see that there's anything to do but close Stevie's office. We'll get us a doctor at the plant, and when Stevie comes back, his practice will be gone, and he can come into the business.'"

Myra straightened with indignation. "Ike was regarding Shelly watchfully. 'I take it you had other plans you liked better?'"

"I'd like almost anything better than closing Stephen's office. In a few days, Dr. Talbot will be able to work."

"What if they do suspend his license?"

"If my idea works out, they won't."

"Oh, ho! So you have a plan?"

"Yes," said Shelly, "but I'll have to do it alone. If I can do it at all, And I hope I can."

"You'll do it," said Myra confidently. "You surely will, sugar."

The next day, among her calls on the doctors about the night service, Shelly went to see young Mr. Prevett, rector of the Episcopal church. She liked this earnest young man; he and Stephen had been friends. He and Craig were very good ones. They lived close to one another, shared an interest in music and argued with fierce enjoyment on all subjects.

Mr. Prevett had come searching for Donald after the accident, and had offered him a second home. Now his first inquiry was for the Scottie. Shelly answered him completely.

"Like all Scots, he knows a good thing when it happens," commented the Reverend Prevett. Then he shot a keen glance at Shelly.

"Did you come about something special, Shelly?" he asked gently.

"You've not had bad news from Stephen?"

"No. Except that he's still on the other side of the world."

The young minister waited. He was not a healthy-looking man; nor was he well—but he never spoke of his personal affairs, even when questioned.

"I came to ask you for help about the office, Mr. Prevett," she said diffidently. "I want you to help me help Craig Talbot."

"Oh, my!"

She glanced at him. "He's being victimized by gossip."

"I know he is. They're saying he drank the night he was hurt; they're saying a woman died who would have lived if he had not been drunk."

"I think I can prove both counts are untrue." She opened her purse, and drew out a small black book which she handed to him. "I want you to call, and in which Craig told me brief notes later to be incorporated upon the history cards in his office."

"I've never believed he was drunk," said Arthur Prevett.

Shelly's eyes lifted to his face. "No. That's why I came to you for help."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — Congressional resentment over proposed changes in Capitol Hill's historic housekeeping methods has aggravated latent bitterness toward certain political advisers at the White House, especially Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's chief of staff. He was already at loggerheads with many prominent GOPsters because of his stingers with patronage.

Although the current controversy was precipitated by Sen. Joe McCarthy's tough investigating tactics and Sen. William Langer's tactless handling of the Warren nomination, it involves a far more fundamental problem, in the opinion of veteran House and Senate members.

It raises the ancient question of whether the President shall dominate the national legislature to such a degree that the constitutional balance of power among the three arms shall be distorted. On that issue the legislators are extremely jealous and sensitive, regardless of party.

EXPECTED HELP—Moreover, Congress is now in the process of retrieving authority that was taken from it by such headstrong figures as Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. Capitol Hill feels that they sought to override and demean the legislative body in both domestic and foreign affairs. It was expected that Ike would help them in this attempt, not to cross them.

F. D. R. transformed Congress into a rubber stamp group in early New Deal days. He tried to purge its most distinguished members. He wanted to pack the Supreme Court. Truman pursued the same pattern. He denounced members as "little men." He said there were "too many B-y-r-d-s in the Senate." He tried to seize the steel industry.

He ordered troops into Korea without prior congressional sanction. Both he and Roosevelt negotiated secret agreements which the Senate tried to undo, first through a formal condemnation of the Yalta and Teheran pacts and recently through the George-Bricker amendment. Although defeated by a single vote, 60 senators supported this restriction on the President's authority in foreign affairs.

INEXPERIENCE—Since Adams is relatively inexperienced at Washington, he has not read this handwriting on the parliamentary wall. Nor does he seem to realize that it is only through committee investigations and limitations that Congress can restrain the Executive, and maintain its authority and dignity. Without the checks it can exercise through committees, Congress would become only an appendage of the Executive branch. It is through these small and compact units that Congress imposes financial and statutory restraints upon the sprawling, shapeless and sometimes secretive federal establishment.

Congressional committees are the eyes, the ears and the brains of Congress. With extremely few exceptions, their recommendations are generally accepted by both chambers. To weaken the committee system or procedure is to weaken the Congress.

SENIORITY—It is against this background that the Adams-Knowland reforms must be con-

By

considered. In a retaliatory spirit toward Senator Langer, Knowland wants committee chairmen to be chosen by elector instead of by seniority. He could not control 10 votes in the Senate or 50 votes in the House for that proposition. Every member hopes to become a chairman some day—through seniority.

Adams advocates stringent rules to govern investigating committees' behavior, an obvious thrust at McCarthy. The White House proposals would transmute congressional hearings into restricted and legalistic affairs, a move which Capitol Hill has always opposed. Even those who disagree with McCarthy insist on greater latitude and freedom than the Adams program would permit.

Had it not been for the broad scope enjoyed by congressional investigators, the corruption, the official chicanery and Communist infiltration at Washington—the mink coats and the pumpkin papers—would not have been exposed. And, ironically, it was these revelations which contributed to the election of Eisenhower and Adams' emergence from comparative obscurity.

Robert Benchley, the late humorist, did not take kindly to editorial doctored with his articles, and finally found an almost infallible way to foil wielders of the blue pencil. He typed all his pieces single-space on the flimsiest paper he could buy. Editors, finding it so difficult to make changes, usually let his copy go to the printers "as was." Incidentally, this might work with other recognized "pros," but it is not recommended to novices. Editors take one look at a single-spaced manuscript by an unknown—aim it at the waste basket or commit it to the rejection slip routine.

Jackson Parent Teacher Society Has Guest Speaker

C. E. Webb Tells Of Ohio Wildlife

C. E. Webb, state game management supervisor of wild life of district 5, was guest speaker at a meeting of Jackson Township Parent Teacher Society held Monday in the school auditorium.

Mr. Webb used "Change in Environments" as his topic, and also showed a movie of fishing spots in Ohio.

Bare Minimum Is Featured In New Shoes

By DOROTHY ROE

American women can be as light-footed as they like this spring and summer, with mere wisps of shoes in new light-weight tropical leathers available in all colors of the rainbow.

The barefoot look is big news in the new shoe lineup, some high-style models consisting merely of a thin sole, dime-size spike heel and shoestring strips of leather. These will be worn not only with cocktail or evening gown, but also with ordinary daytime outfits.

The wide range of colors in new leather shoes sets a new record this year. More than 50 shades are being shown, including the harlequin colors such as parakeet, a deep turquoise, tangerine, a deep orange and coral. All the pastels are present in the lineup, from off-whites to shocking pink; in addition there are many tones of red, green, purple, blue, gray, gun-metal and bronze.

Important for dress-up shoes are the new pearlized leathers, which have a mother-of-pearl sheen.

The open silhouette is popular both in high-heeled shoes and in flats for casual wear, so that the girl with beautiful feet is in luck this year. Since many of the new styles expose all five toes, a boom in pedicures is predicted. Toenail grooming will be just as important as fingernail care this season.

Though the new shoe styles look gay and frivolous, they require expert construction and top quality leathers to achieve correct balance and comfort. The slender strips of leather which hold the shoe in place must be applied with engineering skill, and the leather itself must have sufficient strength and suppleness to do the job of an entire vamp.

American tanners, designers and shoe manufacturers have worked together to achieve this new and colorful light-footed look, a fitting accent to the beautiful legs for which American girls are famous.

For women who insist on more coverage, there are plenty of classic pumps available, also, with closed toes and heel. These, however, usually are cut lower than formerly, for comfort and femininity, and are being shown in the new

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, at the moment he was indirectly rebuking Sen. McCarthy for his treatment of a general, said primary responsibility for fair play in Senate investigations rests with Senate Republicans.

If he meant this as a recommendation to his Senate Republican colleagues to clamp down on McCarthy, he found out fast they wanted no part of it. So, any brake on the Wisconsin Republican will probably have to be applied by Eisenhower.

In a news conference statement last Wednesday, Eisenhower seemed to be disclaiming any responsibility for McCarthy's actions when he said:

"Obviously, it is the responsibility of the Congress to see to it that its procedures are proper and fair. I, of course, expect the Republican membership of the Congress to assume the primary responsibility in this respect, since they are the majority party and therefore control the committees."

And he added he was glad to hear the Senate Republican leadership had taken steps to "set up codes of fair procedure." He was referring to the Senate Republican Policy Committee's meeting of a week before.

This committee, made up of top Senate Republicans, had huddled when McCarthy's quarrel with the Army was reaching a peak. It decided to study rules and policies of procedure. That was pretty vague language.

It was vague enough to cover everything from doing much to doing nothing. The committee could decide, for instance, that the whole Senate ought to lay down ironclad rules to be sure its committees acted fairly.

That's a step Congress has never been willing to take. Each committee makes its own rules. Or the policy committee could just decide to let the committees alone.

A few hours after Eisenhower made his statement about the "primary responsibility" of Congress to see if procedures are fair and expressed gladness about what the policy committee might do, the committee met.

When it was over Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), the chairman, emerged and said there was no intention of asking the Senate itself to form new rules.

"I suppose," Ferguson added, "each chairman thinks he already has all the rules he needs, otherwise he would have done something about it."

And Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), Republican Senate floor leader, said there could be no question of "forcing a set of rules on committee chairmen."

In short, it seems that whatever is done will be left up to the committee chairman and committee members to do, although the policy committee planned to talk some more about it.

Nevertheless, Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) yesterday introduced a bill to establish by law a "code of fair play" for congressional investigations and to create a single Senate-

MRS. JAMES STINGER of Pittsburgh is startled, to say the least, when she examines her gas bill for $478.09 (or $448.03 if paid before a certain date) for her four-room, second-floor apartment. Her receipted bill for the previous month was $5.51. She asked the gas company, "How come?" The company admitted it was a mistake, and apologized, and let her keep the bill for a keepsake. McBride To Quit

NEW YORK (AP)—Mary Margaret McBride, a favorite with millions of radio listeners, will quit her daily broadcasts May 15, after 20 years on the air.

House internal security committee. That would mean taking authority for hunting Communists away from McCarthy's investigations subcommittee, and from others.

This seemed a piece of sheer optimism by Douglas. Other proposals, similar to Douglas', have been introduced earlier this year.

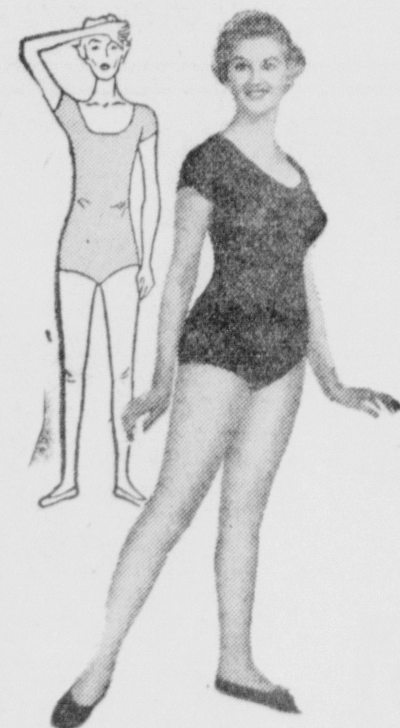

Meanwhile, McCarthy was demanding radio-television time to reply to the Miami speech of Adlai Stevenson, who Saturday night denounced the Wisconsin Republican and the Eisenhower administration too.

And McCarthy, being a man of many surprises, pulled another surprise this time. There was nothing new about his demand for air time to reply to a critic. But this was what was brand new now:

If he gets the radio-TV time, it was learned authoritatively, he plans, for the first time, to show in advance a copy of his remarks to the White House and national committee leaders for their suggestions.

While this could be considered a sign of new spirit of cooperation with the White House, if the White House approved his speech in advance, the Democrats might claim the President was now publicly blessing McCarthy.

Tribunal Refuses Ruling On Alien

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has refused to rule on whether a resident alien who goes to an outlying American possession may be barred from returning to the continental United States.

At issue is a basic point of controversy in pending deportation proceedings against singer Dick Haymes, husband of actress Rita Hayworth.

The court's refusal to rule on the point leaves it open to be raised if the case of Haymes, or some similar case, should reach the high tribunal.

Fox FFA Unit Plans Annual Banquet Soon

The Fox Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was completing plans Tuesday for the group's annual parents-and-sons banquet, to be held at Jackson Township School next Friday at 7 p. m.

In addition to members of the FFA and their parents, guests will include:

Herschel Hill, Wayne Hoover, Gardner Welch, I. N. McFarland, Don Archer of the Soil Conservation Service, Pickaway County School Superintendent George Mc-Dowell, School Superintendent Robert Moyer, and other school officials.

D. S. Johnson, president of the Fox Chapter, will be toastmaster for the festivities. He will also present the FFA Queen, Judy List, and her attendants, Carolyn and Marilyn Eitel. Serving as president of the chapter for the past two years, Johnson was elected to attend the American Legion's annual Boys State program and was also named a member of the national honorary society last year.

He is co-winner of the Elks leadership contest recently completed here.

HILLIS HALL, vo-ag teacher, said he is "justly proud of the recognition given the abilities of the Fox Chapter members."

Total winnings in cash prizes at last year's Pickaway County Fair amounted to $158.50. The business procedure team competed in the district meet at Groveport. The Soils Judging Team placed third in the district. A team participated in the state judging contest, and Robert Fausnaugh, vice-president, is now a high officer in local DeMolay activities. Three of the FFA members will apply for the State Farmer degree this spring.

Ladies of the Jackson Township PTS will prepare and serve the banquet next Friday. Main speaker for the evening will be Chet Long, news analyst and commentator.

HST Still Hopes Adlai Will Run

BOSTON (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says he hopes Adlai Stevenson again will be the Democratic candidate for President and that he will campaign if Stevenson wants him to.

Truman made the remark at a news conference which preceded a luncheon in connection with a program to raise funds for a Truman library.

The former President said he wants to keep the Democratic party alive and he praised Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) as a "great senator," adding that "we need a lot of people like him."

CLEVELAND (AP)—City Councilmen overrode Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze's veto last night and boosted the pay of police and firemen by five per cent. Other city employees had been given three per cent increases and the mayor said that was all the city could afford.

They would have burned her at the stake!

The things our Puritan fathers couldn't understand were often deemed to be witchcraft, and the transformation of coal into electricity and gas for cooking would have been considered black magic in their day — sufficient reason to broil a lady at the stake!

Actually, in an entirely different sense, Bituminous Coal is "black magic", indispensable in the highest, most enjoyable standard of living the world has ever witnessed. Think about it and you'll see why —

Thanks to the Bituminous Coal Industry you live handier, healthier and happier!

From Bituminous Coal, as product ingredient, source of heat and source of power, come necessities and luxuries almost beyond count—asphalt and asphaltum... concrete and cosmetics... paint and plastics... steel and sulfur drugs... aluminum and anaesthetics... nylon and other miracle fabrics... fertilizers, dyes, flavorings, explosives, vitamins, synthetic rubber, acetylene, insecticides and more than 200,000 other products indispensable in our wonder world of better living. And this is only the beginning.

Tomorrow you will enjoy more and more miraculous new products and services made possible by Bituminous Coal. Our economy will require even more of this vital, versatile mineral than the huge tonnages used today. By 1975, demand is expected to increase from 50 to 100 per cent — more and more Bituminous Coal for steel, for electric power and for chemicals... for better living.

The United States' phenomenal growth as an industrial nation is largely due to plentiful power, of which Bituminous Coal is the chief source. This is a very important fact to keep in mind—other fuels are relatively scarce and no nation has yet grown to greatness without coal.

Fortunately, there are known reserves of Bituminous Coal to last for centuries—on deposit, payable on demand. Constant research and large capital investments by the nation's progressive coal companies have put marvelous machines to work so that today's mines can produce more than 5,000 tons a minute. Through the years the coal-hauling railroads have kept pace with this progress and have continued to provide fast, dependable mass transportation, while industry is turning more and more to the use of Bituminous Coal and developing better equipment to utilize it most efficiently.

With its endless contributions to our economy, our security and our personal better living, the coal industry has proven that it is in capable hands... well deserving of public appreciation and cooperation as it continues its vitally important job of producing nature's "black magic".

The contributions of the Bituminous Coal industry are typical of the many ways in which the people benefit when business enterprise is allowed to operate freely as it is in the U. S. A.

Bituminous Coal... America's No. 1 Energy Resource

- Employing more than 300,000 family breadwinners at the highest average daily wage rate of all industries.
- Produced by more than 5,000 competing companies owned by thousands of "average citizen" stockholders.
- Spent $500 million last year for new equipment and operating supplies.
- Possessing inherent, unique advantages of low price, safe storage and dependable supply.
- Indispensable raw material for steel and electricity...
- Taken out of more than 8,000 mines at the rate of more than 400 million tons a year.

Norfolk and Western Railway

RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION IS VITAL IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF ANY GREAT INDUSTRY. THE NORFOLK AND WESTERN, ONE OF THE OLDEST AND LARGEST COAL-HAULING RAILROADS IN THE WORLD, IS PRIVILEGED TO SERVE THE GREAT BITUMINOUS COAL INDUSTRY IN SOUTHWESTERN VIRGINIA, SOUTHERN WEST VIRGINIA AND EASTERN KENTUCKY.

WASHINGTON (AP) — You like flowers? Come along to Washington. We've got acres of them— from sassy yellow tulips to frail-as-a-wisp orchids—all under one roof at the national capital flower show. Prettiest thing you ever saw.

Maybe I shouldn't mention this but you can do more than smell the posies at this big annual event. You can get your back massaged and your personality analyzed. I did both and my back came out better than my personality.

Flowers are the main attraction, though, and that's fine with me. I'm a great garden fancier, and our back yard would be a solid mass of blooms in summer except that I'm too tender-hearted. I hate to see my wife's hands calloused from doing all the work.

Boris Timchenko, the landscape artist, designed this year's show, and came up with what he calls "one of the newer ideas of outdoor living . . . the newest of all necessities, or maybe the greatest of all luxuries—the private bedroom garden."

"There is," says Timchenko, a man after my own heart, "a tendency to spend more time in your bedroom, to relax in your bed, or recline in a chair; to let your mind wander over the most peaceful of all spectacles—plants and flowers growing in the early morning sunlight."

Tiptoeing away to avoid waking Timchenko, who does the planting and weeding, by the way (while he lies late abed) you can investigate some of the sample gardens. One of the better ideas: a child-proof garden, with your prized blossoms carefully planted out of reach of the demon fingers of the young 'uns.

But oops, what's this: "Would you care to have your back massaged?" asks a nice-looking girl in a booth at the edge of the floral display.

You look dubiously at your wife, but she's lost in rapture over some flame-red camellias so you nod a nervous assent. Don't expect too much, though. All the girl does is apply an oversize massaging gadget, something like the barber uses on your scalp, to the region of your sacro-iliac.

"Just the thing for gardeners," she says brightly. "Takes out the kinks and tensions. Only $49.50. Now this reclining chair contains three massage motors. Just ease back, flip a switch and—"

You get away from there quick before you go native. Massage chairs, private bedroom gardens, what kind of outdoor life is this, anyway?

There is just a hint of Coney Island around the edges of the flower show. There comes Omar, a pleasant little man in a beret. He'll analyze your handwriting for a fee. Never mind what Omar told me about myself; the grand jury is still in session.

One thing puzzled us for a moment about the flower show. The "President Eisenhower" rose, a handsome specimen, is planted right next to the "Goldlocks" rose. We looked hard for some

Movie He-Man Facing Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jeff Chandler, the movie he-man, has been sued for divorce on charges of cruelty by his wife of eight years.

Mrs. Chandler, a former actress known professionally as Marjorie Hoshelle, did not give details of her accusations in her suit filed in Superior Court yesterday.

The couple separated last June 30 after a series of estrangements and reconciliations. Under a property settlement the actor's wife is to receive alimony of $2,340 a month for six months; $2,166.67 for the next six months and then $1,986.67 until she dies or remarries.

The agreement also provides that Chandler is to pay $500 a month for support of their children, Jamie, 6, and Dana, 4, and that Mrs. Chandler is to have their custody.

evidence of (a) Democratic or (b) Republican propaganda, but finally decided it was just one of those things. There's no politics in the flower show, so far as we could see. Maybe that's why it's such a big success.

The ethical lawyers, who hide their fame beneath a self-imposed obscurity, may look down their noses at these lawyers, always forgetting that the public does not, and that while their fame may be enormous within the profession, most citizens never heard of them. Their influence upon the community, therefore, is hardly noticeable, whereas the others are regarded as "The Legal Profession" because they are known.

If the ethical lawyers want it to be otherwise, they have to go among the people, but then they would have to explain the enormous cost of any brush with the law, the great delays in the courts which not only add to costs but often create such confusion that the citizen for several years does not know where he stands and has to live with a legal cloud over his head.

They would have a hard time making the laymen understand why the barnacles on the rules of evidence make a trial, which ought to take a few hours, last days on end while the lawyers maneuver over what is and what is not admissible. Most of it sounds silly. The lawyers can do much to clean all this up, but they cannot do it by censorship, suppression, or by advising the citizens, rather than lawyers, about ethics.

Williamsport Defeats St. Mary's In Close Overtime Period, 58-57

The Williamsport Deers won the quarter-finals in the Central District Class B basketball tournament at Capital University Monday night by defeating Marion St. Mary's in an overtime period, 58 to 57.

The victory took the team into the semi-finals, and the game will be played with Lancaster St. Mary's at Capital at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Once again showing the fighting spirit for which the basketball squad is becoming locally famous, the Deers fought a hard battle throughout. They got off to a flimsy start with a free throw by Mowery which gave the team a one-point lead. But a free throw by Ballenger of St. Mary's tied the score.

That was an indication of how

Bevo Attracts Packed House

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Rio Grande's Bevo Francis last night played to a full house and the Arkansas Tech Wonder Boys performed before thousands of empty seats in opening play of the National Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament.

Rio Grande scored a 90-74 victory over Arizona State of Flagstaff. But Bevo, who came to the tournament with a season average of 50.4 for 23 games, was limited to a miserly 28 points. He went out on fouls with 3:31 minutes remaining.

A capacity Municipal Auditorium crowd of 10,500, the biggest first night turnout in the history of NAIA tournaments, watched Rio Grande play. Then many of them left without waiting to see Arkansas Tech spank Mercer College of Georgia 100-72.

Board Relates Plans For Park Renovation

Measure Taken In Effort To Stop Vandalism

Cost Of Services Will Be Partially Borne By Public

A general renovation of Ted Lewis Park this Spring, and a system of charges to be made for the use of some of the park's facilities to help in the upkeep, have been detailed by the city park board.

The board consists of Mayor Robert Hedges, who automatically is president; William Goode, chairman; Monty Lambert, secretary-treasurer; City Recreation Director Dick Boyd; the Rev. Carl L. Wilson; Oscar Root, city safety director; Dewey Speakman, city service director; James P. Shea, and Ben Gordon.

At its first meeting of the year recently, the board decided that everything possible should be done to clean up the park, renovate it as much as possible, and hire a watchman with police powers to prevent further vandalism.

It was decided the watchman would be on duty seven days a week throughout the season, from noon until midnight. He would have the power of arrest to enable him to apprehend anyone caught destroying park property or littering it. In addition, he would act as caretaker.

LAMBERT SAID vandalism is one of the big problems in the proper maintenance of the park. Windows in the park buildings have been broken, some equipment has been put out of order, and the grounds have been littered with beer cans and other debris, he said. Light bulbs have been broken in the buildings and on the lighted playing fields. And because the park has not been adequately maintained for the last several years, the entire area is now in a bad state of disrepair and needs renovation, he added.

While the city allocates $1,300 a year for park purposes, that amount hardly covers the cost of operation and does not allow for maintenance, Lambert declared. To better maintain the park, the board decided on several charges for use of park facilities. They are:

Use of the large shelterhouse for picnics, reunions and other activities, $5 a day; use of the small shelterhouse, $3 with a charge of $1.50 for night use of either building.

A charge of $3 a night will be paid by teams using the ball diamonds and lights. It was pointed out the amount will not quite cover the cost of the lights, but will help defray expenses. The board will replace bulbs when needed, and also will refinish the bleachers and keep them in good condition.

Lights will be installed on the tennis and basketball courts and will be connected to meters, with persons using them dropping coins into the meters to operate the lights.

WITH A VIEW to determining all that must be done to beautify the grounds, replace broken equipment and take measures to bring the park up to standard, the board will meet next Sunday for a tour of inspection.

Lambert said any citizen wishing to offer suggestions about the park

Woman Paper Carrier Elected

EASTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — Miss Katherine M. Root's intensive pre-dawn campaign along her newspaper route paid off last night. She was elected selectman, defeating Board Chairman Stanley Preoccha 1,989 to 1,864.

Chosen Easthampton's 1953 "Woman of the Year," Miss Root delivered a hand-written appeal for votes along with the paper to each of her 182 Easthampton customers. Her delivery work starts at 4:30 a.m.

Before she could start getting out the vote here, Miss Root, 54, delivered papers by jeep to more than 300 rural customers in surrounding communities.

Immigrant Shuns Arms-Bearing Oath

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Japanese-born wife of a Seventh Day Adventist minister was permitted yesterday to take her oath of citizenship without the customary swearing to bear arms for her country.

Mrs. Masu Sager of Takoma Park, Md., told Chief Federal Judge William C. Coleman she would promise to do noncombatant service but said her religion would not allow her to swear to bear arms.

Under these conditions and after considerable questioning, Judge Coleman allowed her to take the oath of allegiance with the phrase stricken out.

Burns Prove Fatal

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Hamlin, W. Va., for Thurman Walls, 28, a steelworker who died Sunday of burns suffered in a fire at his home.

should send them to him, the mayor or to the city safety director. In other actions, the board appointed committees for the year and decided to meet every first and third Monday throughout the park season.

The committees: Athletic co-directors, Wilson and Boyd; playground equipment and religious activity, the Rev. Mr. Wilson; grounds, Root and Speakman; organizations, Shea; publicity and promotion, Gordon.

Reservations for use of the shelterhouses will be handled by Root and Lambert.

Circleville Boys Attend Meeting Dedicated To Good Government

Two Circleville High School seniors now have a better appreciation of their government and its relation to other governments and peoples throughout the world since attending a World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati.

The two are James Leist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Leist, 358 Logan St., and George Fry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Fry, 158 W. Union St.

The institute, held annually, is sponsored by the Cincinnati Council on World Affairs, Rotary clubs, and the Crosley Broadcasting Corp. Circleville Rotary Club sponsored the two boys at the two-day session, and paid all their expenses.

The boys were selected by Principal J. Wray Henry and Mary Walters, teacher in social science, because of their obvious interest in American government. They were among 450 students similarly selected from high schools, both public and parochial, from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia. Miss Walters accompanied the students from Circleville to the meeting, held last weekend.

A HIGHLIGHT of the program was an address delivered by Frances E. Willis, U. S. minister to Switzerland. He spoke on the general theme of the institute, which dealt this year with the topic "Looking at World Trade."

Later sessions were devoted to student discussions on international problems.

The institute is the eighth such meeting to be held and has gained such high prestige that Trygve Lie, first secretary-general of the United Nations, once instructed the U. N. Department of Public Information "to study your arrangements with a view to assisting other United Nations Associations both here and abroad in organizing similar programs."

In the past, themes discussed by the students have included the position of youth in world affairs, "Facing the Far East," and foreign policy in time of crisis.

1923 Request Answered Late

DENVER (AP) — Back in 1923, Miss Annie May Straub, a Denver schoolteacher, planned to take some college courses. She wrote to North Attleboro, Mass., for her grades as a student at the turn of the century.

The high school finally got the letter last week, the Denver Post learned yesterday.

Meanwhile, Miss Straub, retired from teaching in 1944, had died in Los Angeles Jan. 6.

Workers Laid Off

ASHTABULA (AP) — New York Central Railroad furloughed 208 heavy repair workmen yesterday from its car shop here.
